The invocation was offered by Jon Sherman, senior pastor, Trinity Bible Church, Willow Park, as follows:

Our Heavenly Father, we begin this day as we have every day in session—acknowledging the great hand of God by which every good and perfect thing bestowed upon us has come.

We thank you for the privilege of living in the greatest state in the greatest country in the world. Lord, we thank you for this sacred hall, this bastion of freedom and democracy. We ask that by your strong arm, you would continue to protect and defend it that your name may be renowned throughout all the earth.

And Lord, under your sovereign watch, the men and women here on this floor have been elevated by their peers to a place of representative leadership. So Lord, today we ask that you would give them your clear guidance as they research and reflect, as they deliberate and decide on matters that affect so many across this great state and beyond. God, give them strength greater than their burdens, wisdom greater than their knowledge, and courage greater than their fears.

Lord, you have said that righteousness and justice are the foundation of your throne and that truth and loving kindness go before you. So, Lord, we now ask that you would make this earthly room of governance alike to yours, that you would establish righteousness and justice at its foundation, so that truth and loving kindness will go before it. And we ask all of this in the name of the father, and of the son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

The chair recognized Representative P. King who led the house in the pledges of allegiance to the United States and Texas flags.
