The invocation was offered by Dean Kilmer, pulpit minister, College Street Church of Christ, Waxahachie, as follows:

Our dear Heavenly Father, we come before you with thankful hearts as we enjoy the great blessings you provide, the beauty of the earth, the sun, moon, stars, the oceans, and the forest, all which you have created. Father, we are also thankful for this nation which you have blessed.

We come before you with thanks for all these great men and women who serve our state and our nation. Father, our hearts today are filled with love and concern for our nation and its future.

Our prayer today is not for ourselves, but for coming generations. Most of us in this assembly have children and even grandchildren, and Father, the work done by this body will impact the lives of all of those children. Father, we know that if the next generation is to be a great generation with a better state to live in and a stronger nation to serve, this body of men and women must be people of great moral courage. So we pray that you will give them the wisdom to look at every piece of legislation and every decision from the standpoint of what is best for our people and especially for our children. Give them the strength to set aside all party allegiance, all personal desires, all selfish ambitions so they can act with hearts of righteousness filled with a desire to bless future generations.

Father, give each person here the wisdom to make decisions that are best for the future of our great state. Please give each individual in this room a heart of true love and compassion which will enable them to have the courage to understand that righteousness exalts a nation, while sin is a reproach to any people. Father, we need people with great hearts. Give these representatives a strength that radiates from hearts filled with righteousness and integrity. Tom Brokaw called the World War II generation the greatest generation referring to their courage, loyalty, and determination in protecting our nation. Dear God, this nation needs another great generation; please help the men and women of this assembly to become the building blocks for future great generations. In the name of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, we pray. Amen.

The speaker recognized Representative Giddings who led the house in the pledges of allegiance to the United States and Texas flags.
