The invocation was offered by Reverend Lisa Marshall, associate pastor, First United Methodist Church, Denton, as follows:

Gather us in, O living God. Gather us in to your presence this morning. As these women and men come together this day to do the work they have been called and chosen to do, may they feel your spirit working among them.

Bless this body of people, save them from discord and confusion, from pride and arrogance, and from every path that leads away from justice and truth. Empower with the spirit of wisdom those to whom we entrust the authority of government, that there may be peace and justice in this state. Fill them with the love of truth and righteousness and make them ever mindful of their calling to serve the people.

We pray today that grace and peace soothe old political wounds and bring these people together in a common goal of seeking the very best for the State of Texas. May past slights and mistakes be put aside so they may be unified in serving the people and great things may be accomplished.

We lift up today the work of this day. May each person here be focused, ready, and thoughtful as decisions are made, policies put in place, laws are created, and may this work of the house of representatives be work that is pleasing to you. May all tiredness, weariness, and fears be forgotten. Send your renewing strength and courage for the tasks set before these here today who seek to discern the very best for the people, for the resources, and for the land of this State of Texas. Give these leaders the faith and courage together to seek your plan, and finding it, to enact it, knowing that when it is God-inspired, you will open the way through all obstacles.

Bless these men and women, bless their homes and their families. Bless their thoughts and their actions this day. May your grace abound in their hearts. We lift this prayer to you, giving thanks for your great goodness to us through your son, Jesus the Christ. Amen.
