- BACKGROUND: Some have suggested that allowing additional health care professionals to receive Medicaid reimbursement for mental health services could help address workforce shortages.
- DIGEST: CSHB 1879 would require the Health and Human Services Commission (HHSC) to assure that a Medicaid recipient could select certain providers to perform any health care service or procedure covered by Medicaid if the selected person was licensed and authorized by law to perform the service or procedure. The providers would include:

- a licensed marriage and family therapist associate who was working toward fulfilling the supervised practice requirements to be licensed as a marriage and family therapist;
- a licensed master social worker who was actively pursuing the education and training required to be licensed as a clinical social worker; or
- a licensed professional counselor associate who was working toward fulfilling the supervised practice requirements to be licensed as a professional counselor.

HHSC would be required to provide Medicaid reimbursement to a provider, including a federally qualified health center, for the provision of covered counseling services performed by these individuals. HHSC would reimburse the provider at a rate equal to 70 percent of the reimbursement rate established for a licensed psychiatrist or licensed psychologist for providing similar services.

If a state agency determined that a waiver or authorization from a federal agency was necessary to implement the bill, the agency would be required to request the waiver and could delay implementation until the waiver or authorization was granted.

The bill would take effect September 1, 2023.

NOTES:

According to the Legislative Budget Board, CSHB 1879 would have a negative impact of about $1.4 million on general revenue related funds for fiscal 2024-25.
