Committee Report (Amended)

DIGEST

Under current law, agricultural cooperatives and electric cooperatives must report and deliver all funds unclaimed or abandoned by their members to the comptroller. The sources of the unclaimed or abandoned funds are primarily capital credits (money that members are entitled to receive back from their cooperative) and customer deposits; they become unclaimed when the cooperative members can no longer be found because they have moved away or passed away.

Since the funds were generated in their local communities in the first place, members of the cooperatives believe that retaining the money for use in local communities is a better use of the money than sending it to Austin. This bill closely mirrors legislation passed by the 74th Legislature for nonprofit telephone cooperatives.

PURPOSE

As proposed, H.B. 3203 gives nonprofit agricultural and electric cooperatives the option of retaining unclaimed funds for local scholarships or to stimulate rural economic development.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

Rulemaking authority is granted to the comptroller in SECTION 1 (Sections 74.3013(e) and (f), Property Code) of this bill.
