DIGEST AND PURPOSE

On June 9, 2001 The University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston suffered devastating damages as a result of Tropical Storm Allison. Over 10 million gallons of water poured into basement and ground floor research and academic space, killing thousands of research animals and destroying expensive research equipment. As proposed, S.B. 1420 authorizes the issuance of $30 million in revenue bonds to rebuild research and academic space at The University of Texas Health Science Center.
