Current law permits several local government entities to take advantage of state travel rates, including employees or officers of county and municipal government and public junior colleges.

S.B. 1663 allows 24 emergency communication districts, and their employees and board members, that provide 9-1-1 emergency services to utilize the Central Travel Office of the Texas Building and Procurement Commission (commission) state contract for airline fees and travel agent fees when traveling on official district business. S.B. 1663 also allows the commission to charge a district an adjustable fee that does not exceed the commission's cost of providing such services, in accordance with commission rules regarding other local government entities.
