AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Currently, the State Board of Dental Examiners (board) regulates licensed dentists, but has little to no jurisdiction over dental clinics or dental organizations that employ dentists to perform dental services. As a result, dentists who are no longer employed by a dental organization have encountered problems obtaining their patient records from their former employers. The inability to obtain patient records from dental organizations prevents the board from properly investigating complaints filed by members of the public and prevents formerly employed dentists from properly answering questions regarding the care rendered to dental patients.

H.B. 3876 requires a dental organization to designate a dental license holder as a dental custodian of records who will be responsible for providing records to the State Board of Dental Examiners and to any dentist who has patient records that are maintained by the dental organization. This bill also provides civil and criminal penalties for the failure to designate a dental custodian and for the failure to provide dental records as required.
