AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Dr. Hector P. Garcia left an undeniable impact on the State of Texas, the nation, and the world. His service and accomplishments in life were many and included some of the most memorable occasions in recent Texas history. In 1948, Dr. Garcia founded the American GI Forum, aimed at giving Hispanic veterans equal access to the education, job training, and home loans promised by the GI Bill of Rights. Dr. Garcia made national headlines with the group's first big fight, which came after the family of a Hispanic World War II veteran killed in the Philippines was turned away at a Three Rivers funeral home and told to bury him in a segregated cemetery for Hispanics. The doctor contacted state and federal lawmakers and eventually secured a full military burial for the veteran, Private Felix Longoria, in Arlington National Cemetery. The event made the cover of the New York Times and marked the launch of the American GI Forum as a civil rights organization. From then until his death in 1996, Dr. Garcia fought for Mexican-American rights, both locally as a respected doctor and in the national arena.

Dr. Garcia was an alternate ambassador to the United Nations, the first Mexican-American to serve on the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, and a recipient of the nation's highest civilian honor when he received the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 1984.

As proposed, S.B. 1805 creates a state holiday for Dr. Garcia to ensure that the late doctor's life work and legacy is preserved for future generations. This bill does not create a mandatory day off for Texas students and workers, but would incorporate into the state academic curriculum lessons learned from Dr. Garcia's efforts on behalf of civil rights and veteran causes. This holiday falls on the third Wednesday in September, in the middle of Hispanic Heritage Week, and that day is committed to teaching the lessons of Dr. Hector P. Garcia.
