AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

State and local public health officials carry out a variety of public duties required and authorized by state law. These duties involve entering private businesses, homes, and property in order to conduct inspections and assessments, respond to citizen complaints, issue penalties, carry out disease control, and abate nuisances. These professionals sometimes face hostile and dangerous situations when performing their duties, yet current law does not provide any sort of prohibition on interfering with these officials.

As proposed, S.B. 239 provides legal recourse in situations where citizens interfere with the duties of certain state and local officials by making such interference an offense of law.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

This bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
