AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Steroid abuse is a rapidly growing problem in high schools. Across Texas and the nation, young people are abusing steroids to become better athletes, but they have no idea how this substance can harm their bodies and minds. There have been reports of suicide, sudden cardiac arrest, and other harmful events caused by the use of illegal steroids. Students must be educated about the dangers of illegal steroid use.

As proposed, S.B. 8 requires anyone who participates in high school athletics sanctioned by the University Interscholastic League (UIL) to agree not to use illegal steroids and submit to random testing if selected. This bill also requires all athletic coaches from grades seven through 12 to complete an educational program regarding the health effects of steroid abuse. Annually, the testing program will test a minimum of three percent of the approximately 740,000 students who participate in UIL athletics. Testing will be conducted at 30 percent of 1,246 public high school campuses selected at random. S.B. 8 requires UIL to adopt rules for administration of the tests as well as sanctions for those who fail the test.
