AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Current law does not set clear standards for habitability for rental units in large cities, nor does it set specifics for maintenance and repair standards for landlords.

H.B. 1819 requires a municipality to adopt minimum habitability standards for multi-family unit rental housing, provides for a program to inspect those standards, and provides a criminal penalty for non-compliance. It applies only to a municipality with a population of 1.7 million or more and affects multi-family rental buildings with three or more single-family units.

H.B. 1819 authorizes certain municipalities to establish maintenance and repair standards that benefit the habitability of multi-family units, for the health and safety of the residents who occupy them. A failure to meet those requirements would make a landlord subject to a Class C misdemeanor. Each day that a violation continues constitutes a separate offense. A municipality can also impose a civil penalty for violation.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

This bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
