AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

The State Commission on Judicial Conduct (SCJC) closely protects the confidentiality of complaints. This not only makes the extent of fairness and efficiency in SCJC's disciplinary process difficult to determine by the public, but also causes frustration for the complainants participating in this process. What's more, currently the main instrument for the legislature to examine the extent of fairness and efficiency in SCJC's disciplinary process is through the Sunset review process, which happens only once every decade.

A result of Texas Judicial Council recommendations, S.B. 467 would require SCJC to include in its annual report to the legislature the number of complaints on which SCJC has not issued a decision for more than a year since filing, as well as those referred to law enforcement and deferred pending a criminal investigation; notify a complainant of a change in a complaint's status within the investigative process unless notice would jeopardize an undercover investigation; provide online access to an index of pending complaint investigations, searchable by complaint number, that includes the date the complaint is received by SCJC and the status of the investigation or review; publish the guidelines it uses to ensure that a sanction is proportional to the misconduct; and promulgate deadlines by which SCJC has to take action on a complaint, with exceptions for extenuating circumstances. These changes would enhance SCJC's transparency, efficiency, and consistency and increase not only the public's, but also the judiciary's trust in SCJC's work and determinations. S.B. 467 amends current law relating to the procedures of the State Commission on Judicial Conduct.
