AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

- Evidence-based practice requirements help the state provide high quality services for children and families across Texas in situations where there is a risk of abuse or neglect. This bill updates current law relating to prevention and early intervention services to ensure that the state provides the best possible prevention programming and services intended to prevent child abuse or neglect.
- This bill amends the Family Code to make requirements relating to parenting education programs provided by the Department of Family and Protective Services (DFPS), including requirements relating to program outcomes, evaluation by DFPS, and submission of a legislative report, applicable to prevention and early intervention programs or practices. The bill revises the criteria for a program or practice to be considered evidence-based or promising and requires that evidence-informed programs and practices must:
 - combine well-researched interventions with clinical experience and ethics and client preferences and culture to guide and inform the delivery of treatments and services;
 - have an active impact evaluation program or demonstrate a schedule for implementing an active impact evaluation program;
 - substantially comply with a program manual or design that specifies the purpose, outcome, duration, and frequency of the program services; and
 - employ well-trained and competent staff and provide continual relevant professional development opportunities to the staff.

This bill revises the outcome requirements for evidence-based prevention and early intervention programs and practices and includes improved maternal and child health and increased protective factors for youth among those requirements.
